relived is only a memory past exhuming dusty skeletons with such care that one would think of them as made of glass

glass
that would break with only a gentle tapping yet in reality too sturdy for the past can never be broken past lace edged shelf ledged

not eraseable
only traceable
tradition found volume bound yellowed page
fleeting age

1915—an old man
a victim of age
sits upon a stage too weak to stand he speaks with a cracked voice

he smiles
perhaps wistfully
at the school he founded

when he ventured
to bristol
as a methodist minister forty-five years ago

after a grim war had taken its toll education all but forgotten was now revived

he then felt

girls are more eager for and worthy of education because they have been deprived of such facilities for so long

thus the old man agreed to be headmaster of a school with a Miss Chanceaulume as principal only twenty boarding students live in the school that consisted of three buildings a large old home and two brick houses expansion came to the methodist owned college a member of the holston conference it now consisted of a grammar school four years of high school two years of college and the school bore

the old mans name

sullins

a select school for girls and young women located in a beautiful mountain valley 1800 feet above sea level delightful and healthful climate large brick building modern in its appointments and equipped with up to date fire fighting apparatus a passage

for them

death the blow was not solely dealt by flames the fuel was inevitable financial disaster among the logs were the martha washington college in abingdon virginia and centenary college in cleveland tennessee girls schools in abundance but not enough girls to support them the last rites of old sullins were performed and
death
came at midnight on new years eve 1915 or was it 1916

birth of a school built from scratch by previous president william martin and various civic leaders the school a proprietary college owned by the martin family from 1917-1926 is what we know today as sullins roads paved grass and trees uprooted homes built

country becomes city

is this progress

religion and music were emphasized for in the early part of the twentieth century school was only a finishing process producing refined young ladies and school was not difficult for it was thought that a young womans mind should not be taxed classes taught lessons bought culture driven professor given

ladies prim
lowered hem

age has changed
times rearranged

we have come to be educated emulated
not eradicated duplicated and escalated

military led military bred
demure young ladies
being molded
being scolded
becoming black uniforms come in twos
bring the blues calesthenics chapel held twice a week
very bleak

this era is past an age never lasts

fifty years later only the costumes have changed

an age
of lace high collars corsets and stays

an age
of primness hidden emotions and modesty

an age
in which you could never tell what lay behind a smile culture was then inbred into girls tradition fed tradition that time cannot kill tradition that is here still

MAY DAY ON LAKE SYCAMORE

a dozen riders silhouetted against the sky today yesterday or tomorrow such settings cannot be changed with time nor can be yellowed with age tomorrow im going into the hills in search of a rainbow and when i get there ill give you my share some day a city may grow around me some day my beauty may be a thing of the past some day i may lose my freedom some day i might not be able to smell the trees and flowers some day a large road might break my spell of quietness but all of this is some day reflections

of a vine entangled fence in a pond so deep that ladders were used to clean it

in a pond now not even knee deep a porch now enclosed and little iron statues stand where once a chaos of nature reigned snow crusted eyelids trees bent over with winters age a silent world with a grace of its own trees icy fingers try to grab you but you laughingly escape now or then it does not matter when match stick trees around sullins perched on the hill in an almost austere setting looking down upon life in another world

yet we know it
as we see it from behind while the old sullins recovered from war

the new sullins went through world wars 1 and 2 and the korean war and the vietnam war the war to end all wars was aided by the sullins red cross auxillary workers world war 2 brought a light-hearted approach to buy a bond for freedom

another old man came to look upon the school that he had founded the school was the new sullins and the man was william e martin martin passed his heritage on to his son william martin who became vice president in 1945 began a long range program to improve the school by narrowing the scope omitting the high school program from which came baskervill library virginia hall fine arts building metts hall new power and electricity building indoor riding ring science building humanities center and a student center in the making also from this comprehensive self study of 1946 came an enlargement of the board of trustees and the creation of the board of visitors poets to come orators singers musicians to come not today is to justify me and answer what i am for but you a new brood native athletic continental greater than before known arouse arouse for you must justify me you must answer

i myself but write one or two indicative words for the future i but advance a moment only to wheel and hurry back in the darkness

i am a man who sauntering along without fully stopping turns a casual look upon you and then averts his face

poets to come—walt whitman
